

NEW EDITOR-IN-CHIEF: CAROLINE NGO

I am excited to inform you that Caroline Ngo will be the new Editor-in-Chief of CCH's International Tax Journal. Caroline is a partner located in McDermott, Will & Emery's Washington D.C. office, and is the co-leader of the firm's international tax practice group. She is an excellent international tax attorney, advising clients on cross-border planning, mergers and acquisitions, and representing clients in tax controversies and before the IRS. Caroline is active in leadership in tax organizations, a frequent speaker, and author of articles.

Caroline is enthusiastic to take on the role of Editor-in-Chief. She said: "I am honored to serve as the new EIC and committed to maintaining the very high standards of the ITJ. I thank CCH and Lowell for their support and providing me with this special opportunity." Caroline looks forward to working with ITJ's Advisory Board and authors in making a truly exceptional international tax publication even better.

I am very grateful to CCH for having provided me the opportunity to serve as the EIC of the International Tax Journal, and am especially thankful to the Advisory Board and authors for their excellent contributions to the ITJ—you are the reason the ITJ stands out as one of the very best international tax journals. I would like to thank the staff at CCH for their unwavering support, and, in particular, the Managing Editor, Joy Hail, for her guidance, encouragement, and incredible ability to bring the journal to publication. I must also recognize the indispensable contributions of my long-time assistant, Teresa Jenkins, without whom there would be no bi-monthly journal—and all of the authors know what I mean.

Joy, Teresa, and I look forward to supporting Caroline as she takes over the EIC responsibilities.

CAROLINE H. NGO is a Partner in the Washington, DC office of McDermott Will & Emery LLP.
